

SUMMER ASSIGNMENTS FOR MS. MEDINA ZEVAZ 2022 - 2023

US Govt: Race, Gender, Power (H) and Social Movements and Social Justice (H)

PLEASE SCROLL DOWN TO FIND YOUR “SUMMER READING.” OR MORE LIKE SUMMER/WINTER LISTENING... I TRIED TO PICK PODCASTS THAT I FIND INFORMATIVE, RELEVANT, INTERESTING AND ABLE TO SPARK DISCUSSION. I DO HOPE YOU ENJOY THEM – THEY ARE PODCASTS THAT I ALSO LISTEN TO IN MY PERSONAL TIME.

Social Movements and Social Justice:

- Due: First full week of school.
- Listen to ALL 3 of the following podcasts from the Code Switch Podcast:
 1. Listen to the episode entitled On Whiteness (37 minutes), from May 31, 2016.
Google it or access it here:
<https://www.npr.org/sections/codeswitch/2016/05/31/479733094/the-code-switch-podcast-episode-1-can-we-talk-about-whiteness>
 2. Listen to the episode entitled On Strike! Blow it Up! (37 minutes), from March 20, 2019. Google it or access it here:
<https://www.npr.org/templates/transcript/transcript.php?storyId=704988020>
 3. Listen to episode entitled The Racial Reckoning That Wasn't (36 minutes), from June 29, 2021. Google it or access it here:
<https://www.npr.org/transcripts/1004467239>
- TO TURN IN: Write a 2-page summary/reflection (3/4 page minimum per podcast), that gives a summary of the topics discussed and also discusses your reaction/analysis of the content. Your reaction/reflection can address any or all of the following: What stood out to you? What resonated with you? What ideas do you challenge? What questions does this podcast bring up for you that you would like to address/discuss in class?

Social Movements and Social Justice Honors:

- Due: First full week of school.
- Listen to ALL 3 of the following podcasts from the Code Switch Podcast:

1. Listen to the episode entitled On Whiteness (37 minutes), from May 31, 2016. Google it or access it here:
<https://www.npr.org/sections/codeswitch/2016/05/31/479733094/the-code-switch-podcast-episode-1-can-we-talk-about-whiteness>
 2. Listen to the episode entitled On Strike! Blow it Up! (37 minutes), from March 20, 2019. Google it or access it here:
<https://www.npr.org/templates/transcript/transcript.php?storyId=704988020>
 3. Listen to episode entitled The Racial Reckoning That Wasn't (36 minutes), from June 29, 2021. Google it or access it here:
<https://www.npr.org/transcripts/1004467239>
- TO TURN IN: Write a 3-page summary/reflection (1 -page minimum per podcast), that gives a summary of the topics discussed and also discusses your reaction/analysis of the content. Your reaction/reflection can address any or all of the following: What stood out to you? What resonated with you? What ideas do you challenge? What questions does this podcast bring up for you that you would like to address/discuss in class?

US Govt: Race, Gender and Power:

- Due: First full week of school.
- Listen to 10 episodes of the NPR Politics Podcast.
 - At least TWO of those episodes MUST be Friday "Weekly Roundup" episodes.
 - It is available on Apple Podcasts or wherever you listen to podcasts. Or, you can Google "NPR Politics Podcast." It comes out 5 days a week.
- Write a 500-700-word reflection that addresses all of the following:
 - How familiar with politics are you, in general? Do you keep up with the news? Explain why or why not (no judgement!)
 - From what dates did you listen to the podcast? What themes or trends came out of the episodes in terms of politics, government, race, gender or power?
 - What did you learn? What are some of the key issues, events, etc. that stood out to you from your chosen podcasts?
 - What questions or concerns remain for you after having listened?
 - What topics do you want to talk about more in class? Why?
 - What is your "Can't Let it Go"? What is it that you can't let go of, politics or otherwise?

US Govt: Race, Gender and Power Honors:

- Due: First full week of school.
- Listen to 10 episodes of the NPR Politics Podcast.
 - At least TWO of those episodes MUST be Friday “Weekly Roundup” episodes.
 - It is available on Apple Podcasts or wherever you listen to podcasts. Or, you can Google “NPR Politics Podcast.” It comes out 5 days a week.
- Write a 750-950-word reflection that addresses all of the following:
 - How familiar with politics are you, in general? Do you keep up with the news? Explain why or why not (no judgement!)
 - From what dates did you listen to the podcast? What themes or trends came out of the episodes in terms of politics, government, race, gender or power?
 - What did you learn? What are some of the key issues, events, etc. that stood out to you from your chosen podcasts?
 - What questions or concerns remain for you after having listened?
 - What topics do you want to talk about more in class? Why?
 - What do you see as the most important political issues facing the nation right now? Why? How would you approach this issue?
 - What is your “Can’t Let it Go”? What is it that you can’t let go of, politics or otherwise?